

Pembrokeshire Friends of the Earth AGM

Thursday 29th November, 6.45 pm
Seminar Room, Bloomfield, Narberth
Followed at 7.30pm by a showing of

BLUE HEART

A film about the damming of Europe's last wild rivers

Dams and river diversions drastically change the environment affecting waterways, natural habitats, surrounding landscapes and whole communities. This short film directed by Britton Caillouette is about the fight for Europe's last wild rivers. It presents the dilemmas facing us as we move towards a decarbonise energy supply and the potential costs and harmful impacts including those on climate change itself.

We will follow the film by refreshments and a chance to explore our campaign priorities for the year to come

Pembrokeshire Friends of the Earth AGM

Thursday 29th November, 6.45 pm
Seminar Room, Bloomfield, Narberth

Followed at 7.30pm by a showing of

BLUE HEART

A film about the damming of Europe's last wild rivers

Dams and river diversions drastically change the environment affecting waterways, natural habitats, surrounding landscapes and whole communities. This short film directed by Britton Caillouette is about the fight for Europe's last wild rivers. It presents the dilemmas facing us as we move towards a decarbonise energy supply and the potential costs and harmful impacts including those on climate change itself.

We will follow the film by refreshments and a chance to explore our campaign priorities for the year to come

Pembrokeshire Friends of the Earth AGM

Thursday 29th November, 6.45 pm
Seminar Room, Bloomfield, Narberth
Followed at 7.30pm by a showing of

BLUE HEART

A film about the damming of Europe's last wild rivers

Dams and river diversions drastically change the environment affecting waterways, natural habitats, surrounding landscapes and whole communities. This short film directed by Britton Caillouette is about the fight for Europe's last wild rivers. It presents the dilemmas facing us as we move towards a decarbonise energy supply and the potential costs and harmful impacts including those on climate change itself.

We will follow the film by refreshments and a chance to explore our campaign priorities for the year to come

Pembrokeshire Friends of the Earth AGM

Thursday 29th November, 6.45 pm
Seminar Room, Bloomfield, Narberth
Followed at 7.30pm by a showing of

BLUE HEART

A film about the damming of Europe's last wild rivers

Dams and river diversions drastically change the environment affecting waterways, natural habitats, surrounding landscapes and whole communities. This short film directed by Britton Caillouette is about the fight for Europe's last wild rivers. It presents the dilemmas facing us as we move towards a decarbonise energy supply and the potential costs and harmful impacts including those on climate change itself.

We will follow the film by refreshments and a chance to explore our campaign priorities for the year to come